

Charity Commission NI Competition

The Department for Communities has launched a competition for the appointment of the Chief Commissioner to the Board of the Charity Commission NI.

The Charity Commission is the independent regulator of charities in Northern Ireland, the Commission plays a key role in their development. The charity sector supports and provides vital services to the people of Northern Ireland, with charities ranging from small local groups, to those that operate nationally and internationally.

The Chief Commissioner contributes significantly to the charitable sector, with this position providing the opportunity to positively impact on the organisation, whilst enabling charities to meet their legal and regulatory obligations, and ensuring that they retain public confidence. This position also leads the Commission's Board in its corporate responsibilities and will lead in driving forward change arising out of the Independent Review of Charity Regulation.

Further details on the role, including remuneration and time commitment are available via the NI Direct and Department for Communities websites: www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/public-appointment-vacancies or www.communities-ni.gov.uk/dfc-public-appointments

Applications are welcome from across the community, voluntary, business or public sectors.
